October 23, 2024 – High Point, North Carolina – This fall, at the International Home Furnishings Market in High Point, North Carolina, Hickory Chair will debut the exquisite Bruges Collection, designed by Suzanne Kasler. Inspired by her travels to the charming city of Bruges, Belgium, this collection features distinctive upholstery and occasional pieces for living spaces, as well as signature pieces for bedrooms and dining rooms.

To introduce the new collection, Suzanne has styled a beautiful space in the company's newly opened showroom, centrally located at 200 N. Hamilton Street in the High Point Design District. This elegant space captures Suzanne's exceptional design sensibility, seamlessly blending pieces from her various Hickory Chair collections with selections from her Visual Comfort lighting line. Bright white tones are enhanced by subtle accents of gold, blue, and pink, through a sophisticated mix of fabrics, original art, and accessories.

"Traveling is my greatest source of inspiration," Suzanne reveals. "During my visit to Bruges, Belgium last year, I encountered a new design perspective that inspired me in an entirely new way. I wanted to bring that design aesthetic into my next collection, which I am calling the Bruges Collection." She continues, "This collection is my way of mixing modern sensibility with classic silhouettes and refined details, matched with the incomparable quality of Hickory Chair.
